

Through the many challenges and changes the property management industry has faced this year, IREM continues to look to tomorrow. We are launching valuable new online learning offerings that reflect the remote/hybrid work model our members now expect. We are expanding our reach globally and connecting the dots to support and unite our members. With a greater global reach, we can make the world a little smaller and a little less anonymous by building and maintaining global relationships.

With that said, I am honored to serve as 2023 President of the Institute!

In 2023, we'll be focusing on raising awareness around the importance and impact of the real estate management profession. We need to make sure that we're equipping the next generation of property managers with all the tools they need to be successful, and that the IREM experience- for members and non-members alike- remains relevant and consistent. It's important we make sure IREM education is understood as essential to the profession. And finally, we want to lead DEI initiatives by example.

During my year, I want to focus on the support and expansion of our international efforts. I have had the opportunity to travel to Japan, Canada, South Africa, and the United Arab Emirates for IREM and meet so many of the amazing members, and we want to make sure that we're supporting you! This is true for all our programs outside the U.S. – it is our sincere plan to encourage, engage, collaborate, and foster the growth of all those chapters and members while also exploring new international areas we can expand into.

I am excited to kick off this year and I look forward to serving as your 2023 President.
